Conscience.

Mrs. Knagg—Talk of conscience! I don't believe you have any idea of what conscience is. Mr. Knagg—Sure, I do. Conscience is that inward monitor that, when you're wrong, prompts you to think up an excuse for blaming some one else.—Counselor.

Reversed.

Greeble—Is that your baby? Cawdon—No, sir. The possession is on the other side. He is not my baby. I'm his father.—Christian Register.

Everything has two handles—one by which it may be borne, another by which it cannot.—Epictetus.

Putting the Sickroom in Shape.

Disfurnish the sickroom of every essential. Leave nothing that can be knocked off or over or that clatters or rattles. Remove rugs from the bare floor, but keep a small one handy for the patient's feet. Cover a carpet with a smooth sheet of something washable. In case of contagion take away draperies and pictures. Have the bedstead light and firm standing, not too low, single or of three quarter size. Set it so there is free passage all round it, but not so light glares into sick eyes. Place the head at least six inches from the wall and set beside it a small solid table. A couch or single bed, a spacious dresser, a bigger table and at most three chairs are complete equipment. Give up the dresser to the patient's clothes, bedclothes, towels, table covers and so forth. Have three changes of clothes, a dressing gown a light shawl, slippers, many clean handkerchiefs. A dressing room attached is a godsend—next to it a bathroom easily reached. Lacking either, a washstand fully furnished is necessary also an alcohol or oil stove for hot water.—Harper's Household Handbook.

Selecting Men.

"Seeing" men is an art. It amounts almost to second sight. Often in a business "line" some man makes his way mysteriously and rapidly to the top or near to it. He does not seem to have greater trading ability than many others, nor has he been favored by a larger capital or a more magnetic personality. But he rises. His faculty of "seeing" men has been the magical force.

It is no trick at all to discover the man who has triumphantly made a record, who is already a personality in this trade or that. Unfortunately such a man is unfailingly costly. What he has done, moreover, is no positive guarantee as to his future exploits. Men of great reputation as lieutenants many times prove great disappointments when they shift. The chief who "sees" picks a man whose reputation is yet to be made and thereby gets the profits himself.—Harper's Weekly.

Roused the Judge.

When Judge Gaynor was on the bench in New York he had a case where the attorney for the defense was exhausting the patience of every one in asking absurd questions of a witness whose mentality was of extremely low order. He kept this up for half an hour to no purpose at all and at last explained:

"Now, of course, you don't know that the defendant here is a manufacturer?"

"Please don't address your questions to what this witness does not know," interposed Judge Gaynor. "It opens such a wide range of possibility. It is patent that if you persist in finding out what he does not know we will never finish this case. Please therefore try to find out something that he does know."

Learned by Experience.

A wolf and a fox and a lion, having banded themselves together, snared a goat and a stag and a hare. And the lion said to the wolf, "Divide these among us." The wolf said, "The goat is for thee, the stag is for me, and the hare is for the fox," and when the lion heard these words he became wroth and leaped upon the wolf and choked him. Then he said to the fox, "Do thou divide the spoil." And the fox said to him, "The goat is for thy breakfast, the hare for thy lunch and the stag for thy supper." And the lion said to him, "Whence hast thou learned to make such an equitable division?" The fox replied, "From the wolf which Ieth before thee, O my lord and king."—From the Orient.

In the Still Timber.

"There's no sorrow, no unhappiness, no worry in the woods," says a nature writer. No wonder people take to 'em.—Denver Republican.

The Value of Accuracy.

We strive so much to know everything that we lose sight of the fact that accuracy is more important than knowledge since knowledge that is misty and fragile is a poor guide. But it is not only that what we know should be true as that the fact that accuracy is one of the most important elements of character. Vague ideas tend to make a weak character since character is only another name for truth. So that in the education of every man and child accuracy should be made a vital part. One of the tests for entrance to the Naval academy is, or was, an addition of a column of figures to ascertain the quantity of carelessness. If any, the applicant has in his character. It should be made an important item in our education to require accuracy.—Ohio State Journal.

Where Sherlock Holmes Lived.

The cattle show was regularly held in Baker street for many years before its removal to the Agricultural hall. Baker street takes its name from Sir Edward Baker, a friend of the Portman square and to whom the land belonged. The street has had its share of famous inhabitants. Bulwer Lytton was born and Mrs. Siddons died there. Pitt lived at its north end, and Henry Grattan, the orator, died there in 1820. And have you noticed how very small a street Baker street is?—London Globe.

SHE GAVE UP ALL HOPE

Physicians Failed To Help Mrs. Green, But She Finally Found Relief in Cardui.

Meetz, Va.—Mrs. J. C. Green of this place, says: "I suffered with womanly troubles so that I could hardly sit up. Two of the best doctors in our town treated me, and I tried different medicines, until I gave up all hope of ever getting well."

One day, I decided to try some Cardui. It did so much for me that I ordered some more, and it cured me! Today, I feel as well as I ever did in my life.

The pains and the trouble are all gone. I feel like another person in every way. I wish every sufferer could know what Cardui will do for sick women."

A few doses of Cardui at the right time, will save many a big doctor bill by preventing serious sickness.

It tones up the nervous system, and helps make pale cheeks fresh and rosy. Thousands of weak women have been restored to health and happiness by using Cardui. Suppose you try it.

It may be just the medicine you need.
